

I. N. U. SHOWS STEADY GAIN IN REVENUES

Annual Report Is Released From Dixon Office

The annual report of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company for 1937 was released this morning at the Dixon offices of the company, the year ending December 31. Officers of the company are as follows: George R. Jones, president; George B. Fluhr, vice-president; Phillip Reilly, secretary; J. C. Graff, treasurer; W. S. Marloth, auditor; D. Robert Bower, assistant secretary; L. E. Jacobsen, assistant treasurer; Directors—C. L. Best, H. E. Burkholder, George B. Fluhr, George R. Jones, Edward Valle and Frederick F. Webster, Executive Committee—C. L. Best, George B. Fluhr, Geo. R. Jones, Edward Valle.

Electric revenues exceeded those of 1936, the receipts for the past year being $3,770,726 against $3,227,736 in 1936. Gas revenues also showed an increase of $503,126 against $478,806. Killowatt hours of electricity sold were 181,264,956 against 132,818,274 for 1936 and the thermals of gas sold amounted to 2,072,210 against 1,915,183.

More Customers
Customers using electric service for 1937 numbered 47,763 against 45,572 in 1936. Gas customers of the company numbered 15,064 against 14,664 and water customers served totaled 43 against 41. Communities served covering a territory of approximately 4,500 square miles totaled 173,170 of which used electric service, 12 using gas service and one being supplied with water.

Total operating revenues were the highest in the company's history. Electric revenues constituted 88.2 per cent of the total for 1937 an increased 16.8 per cent over 1936: Revenues from a large industry in the territory, which used in 1937 very substantial amount of power, served to augment total electric revenues. Gas revenues accounted for 11.8 per cent of the total, and were greater by 5.1 per cent than those of 1936. Operating expenses and taxes increased $497,352 or 19.2 per cent compared with the previous year.

Operating Expenses
Expense of operation and maintenance totaled $1,901,784, an increase of $316,949, or 20 per cent. The increase was due primarily to greater power purchased made necessary by the increased use of electricity by customers, and to higher payroll expenditures. The increase would have been greater if the policy of capitalizing all indirect construction expenditures, initiated January 1, 1937, had been in effect during 1936.

Total tax provisions for 1937 aggregated $604,145, an increase of $123,878, over the total provisions for 1936, and amounted to 41.1 per cent of total operating revenues.

Net income amounted to $695,491, compared with $621,310 in 1936. As of January 1, 1937, the company adopted the policy of capitalizing all indirect construction expenditures. If such policy had been in effect during the year 1936, net income for that year would have been increased approximately $60,000.

Lullaby

Hollywood, Mar. 25.—(AP)—Bob Burns improvised a bawdy lullaby today.

A daughter, weight 8 pounds 8½ ounces, arrived at a Hollywood hospital, where her nervous father declared a few hours earlier:

"I hope it's a girl, because I don't want a boy to have to go through what I'm going through now."

Condition of both mother and baby was pronounced satisfactory.

Burns and his wife, the former Harriet Foster, flew to Nevada last May to be married. She had been his secretary.

The actor-humorist has a son, Robin, Jr., by his first wife, who died in 1936.

SENATE ADOPTS RESOLUTION FOR JOINT TVA PROBE

Bridges Says Way Is New Clear For An Investigation

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—The Senate adopted today a compromise resolution calling for a joint Senate-House investigation of TVA.

The resolution was proposed by Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader.

It included some requests for information on the TVA, advanced by Senators Bridges (R-NH) and King (D-Utah), authors of a separate investigation resolution.

Under the resolution, a committee of five senators and five representatives would be set up, with $50,000 provided for expenses.

Earlier, all Senate groups seeking an investigation agreed on a new resolution providing for a congressional inquiry.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), an author of one TVA investigation resolution, told reporters that he and Senator King (D-Utah), co-author, had agreed with Senators Barkley (D-Ky) and Norris (Ind-Neb), authors of other resolutions, on the form of a new proposal.

Include 8 of 23 Charges
Bridges said the compromise resolution would include eight of 23 charges which he had made originally against the TVA and which Barkley and Norris had omitted from their proposals.

"The way is all clear now for an investigation," Bridges said.

He added that it had not been determined finally whether the investigation should be made by both the House and Senate or by the Senate alone, but that in either event, the compromise draft of the resolution would stand.

House Speaker Bankhead said it appeared certain the inquiry would be conducted by a joint Senate-House committee.

Bankhead would name the House members of the committee and Vice-President Garner the Senate members.

The new resolution includes specific instructions for investigation of anti-TVA activities of the private power companies as well as the Bridges-King charges against the TVA.

Government Reorganization
The Senate postponed a final vote on government reorganization until Monday in order to consider the TVA inquiry. Administration forces believed victory on the reorganization bill was certain, inasmuch as all major amendments have been defeated.

When that measure is disposed of, the Senate will discuss the tax revision bill which its finance committee changed yesterday into important respects. Against the wishes of administration members, the committee eliminated the undistributed profits tax and revised the House provisions for a capital gains levy.

The House was debating the war department appropriation bill.

Revenue Bill
The Senate finance committee knocked House-approved estate and gift tax provisions out of the revenue bill today.

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) said the committee decided the es-

REFUGEE PLAN DEPENDS UPON NAZIS ACTION

Hull Offers U. S. As Asylum For the Oppressed

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—The success of Secretary Hull's proposal for evacuating political refugees from Germany and Austria, informed persons agreed today, will depend largely on what restrictions are laid down by the Nazi government.

Germany, they said, has followed the practice of permitting emigrants to take little or no money with them.

This policy has the effect of discouraging the refugees and also raises the question in other countries of whether to welcome penniless persons.

Hull sent telegrams to nine European and 20 American nations yesterday, proposing the setting up of an international committee to facilitate the emigration through financing by private organizations.

The state department said later that additional messages from Hull were sent to Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa, raising the total to 33.

The reaction from Germany was awaited with particular keenness, since it became evident Hull's proposal had not been communicated to Berlin.

The German embassy said here it had received no advance notification. Attaches declined to comment.

State department officials did not anticipate that Germany would offer much objection to emigration in itself, since most of the refugees would be Jews and therefore unwanted to Nazi states.

Germany's quota under the immigration act of 1924 has been less than half-filled in recent years.

APPLIES TO OTHERS

Warm Springs, Ga., March 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today the American proposal to give asylum to political refugees in Germany and Austria also applied to oppressed minorities in Russia, Spain and Italy and any other country abroad.

He added that it was designed to help all groups seeking to get out of troubled lands—Jews, Catholics and Protestants, that no legislation was required to accomplish the purpose, and that it was in line with domestic policy that goes back to 1789 when the United States held itself out as an asylum for political refugees.

The president talked of foreign and domestic questions to reporters as he sat in an open car in front of a press cottage.

With him were William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France and Basil O'Connor, his former law partner. He said he had talked with Bullitt about how to rid the government career services of men who remain in them although incompetent.

The president nodded in agreement when a reporter asked whether the refugee proposal applied to Italy, Russia and Spain or any other country.

He said a similar situation arose in 1848 when there were uprisings in Europe against monarchies.

As to Hull's proposal inviting nine European and all the American nations to set up a committee to study the present day problem, he said it was designed to get private money to help oppressed peoples move to other lands.

He said requests for asylum have come not only from Jews but from

Body of Man, Apparently Dead Weeks, Discovered In Hydro-Plant's Pool

Was Lodged Against Grating Of No. 5 Turbine

The body of a man, which from all appearances had been in the water of Rock river for several weeks, floated into the pool east of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company hydro plant at the foot of Ottawa last night and lodged against the grates of the No. 5 turbine where it was discovered by Glen Flanagan, student operator at the plant, while inspecting the gratings at 9:30 to remove debris. Proclaiming a piece of rope, he climbed down a ladder and made the body fast to the grating, after notifying employees in the plant, who turned off the fifth generator. Flanagan then notified Coroner K. B. Segner and assisted in removing the body from the pool.

Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber and Patrolmen Bohnstiel, Jones and Giessner went to the scene immediately after the report and removed the body from the pool. Coroner Segner ordered removal of the body to the Jones funeral home and empaneled a jury, members of which viewed the body as it was taken from the water, then proceeded to the police station where an inquest was conducted.

The jury, composed of Guy H. Merriam, foreman, Charles J. Finley, Richard Royster, Robert Gross, Claude E. Horton and John White returned a verdict that death was apparently due to drowning in Rock river.

Start Inquiry

Coroner Segner ordered that the body be held until this morning to permit fingerprinting if possible. Dixon state hospital officials were informed of the finding of the unidentified man and were conducting an investigation to ascertain if the body is that of a missing patient.

The body is that of a white person, probably between 50 and 55 years of age, weighing about 180 pounds, being about 5 feet, 8 inches in height, with brown hair and blue eyes. An upper incisor tooth on the left side of the face is missing. The body was clothed in rough and well worn work clothing, with five buckle overshoes with red rubber soles which are worn almost smooth. From all appearances it has been in the water the entire winter.

It was suggested it might be the body of Arvid Johnson, fisherman and trapper, who has been missing from his cabin home near Grand Detour since early last winter.

Two Grand Detour residents, Peter and Frank Bovey, came to Dixon last night and viewed the remains as they were taken from the water. The former stated that the corpse bore a remarkable resemblance to Johnson while Frank strongly maintained that it was not the missing trapper. He based his decision on the fact that Johnson's front teeth were in very bad condition and several were missing while one tooth was missing from the mouth of the unidentified man.

Johnson, according to Frank Bovey, wore hip boots while those on the body were five buckle overshoes.

Police and those who volunteered to assist in removing the body from the deep pool experienced difficulty in their rescue efforts. Hooks and ropes were pressed into use to raise the corpse from its lodging place against the steel grates of the turbine intake and this was not accomplished for almost an hour and a half after it was discovered.

Will Adams of this city, after viewing the body at the Jones funeral home, told Coroner Segner that he was positive that the body was that of Johnson. Other friends of the bachelor trapper and fishermen were equally insistent that it was not Johnson's body. An effort was being made this afternoon to locate other fishermen living along Rock river in that vicinity in order to establish the identity before the badly decomposed body is ordered interred.

Dr. Raymond Worsley at the request of Coroner Segner this morning made a chart of the teeth and fillings, when it was found to be impossible to obtain finger prints.

A close examination of the body revealed tattoo marks on both forearms. On the right forearm is a six inch dagger penetrating an apple core and with leaves around the border. On the left forearm is an eight-point star with four small points and four large ones.

Troubled

Hollywood, Mar. 25.—(AP)—Harry Langdon, wistful film comedian who made millions forget their troubles in laughter, can't forget his own now.

Langdon owes $2,920 alimony to Mrs. Helen Langdon, from whom he was divorced in 1935. He testified yesterday his earnings since April, 1937, totaled only $1,090.

"I'm flat broke," he said. "I've been borrowing money from my friends."

Mrs. Langdon said the comedian owed her $21,078 on a judgment in New York courts under a 1931 separate maintenance order.

The case was continued until July 7.

SAYS GIRL ASKED TO BE KILLED BY HER YOUNG LOVER

Lad Declares Death Was Part of Sweetheart's Suicide Pact

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Donald F. Carroll, Jr., 16-year-old son of a retired army lieutenant, trembled so violently when he appeared in the police lineup today that he was not asked to repeat his version of the killing of his blonde young sweetheart yesterday in what he said was to have been a suicide pact.

Young Carroll, who told District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan that the last request of his sweetheart was that he kill her but spare himself, may face a first degree murder indictment.

The girl, Charlotte Mathiesen, 18-year-old typist, asked him to kill her, he said, because she was about to become a mother and they could not afford to be married.

When he stepped into the glare of the lineup his lips twitched and his hands worked convulsively. Acting Lieutenant James Pyke questioned him gently.

Says Statement Was True
"You made a statement to the district attorney yesterday?" "Yes, sir," Carroll replied.

"The details as you gave them are true?" Carroll gulped and said, "Yes, sir."

That was all. He was taken downstairs, fingerprinted and then returned to Queens for arraignment.

He still wore the black necktie that he wore when he and Charlotte went into the bedroom of his home in the Jackson Heights section of Queens yesterday, carrying an army revolver belonging to the boy's father. He failed to carry out the suicide pact, he said, because of her last-minute request.

Sullivan said he would have to ask a first degree indictment but "what a trial jury will do, I would not be able to prophesy."

WAR VETERAN KILLED
Benton, Ill., March 25.—(AP)—Guy Peters, 45, of Christopher, Legionnaire widely known in Democratic politics, was killed late yesterday by a motor car in the Bell & Zoller No. 1 mine at Zeigler.

Peters was a veteran of the Meuse, Argonne, Somme and Trianon engagements in the World War.

Kidnaped by Friend
New York, Mar. 25.—(AP)—Julius Sinykin, Wakegan, Ill., clothier, was in New York today, but not because he wanted to be.

"I didn't want to come here and I don't want to be here," he said, "but I here I am."

The only person who thought Mr. Sinykin's embarrassment very funny was comedian Jack Benny.

The two are old friends. Sinykin went to a railroad station yesterday, and boarded Benny's train "just for a minute" to say hello. But, Benny wouldn't let him say goodbye.

RED GENERAL PREDICTS JAP CATASTROPHE

Invaders Already Meet Reverses In Interior

With the Chinese Red Army in North China, March 25.—(AP)—General Yu Cheng-Tsao, commander of central Hopen Chinese communist forces, has this to say of the final outcome in China's war with Japan:

"The farther inland the Japanese come the surer will become their ultimate failure in China."

As he spoke, farmer-militiamen passed in review before him, chanting anti-Japanese songs.

The nearest Japanese garrison was 10 miles away.

"This is only one of the many people's armies we are organizing to harass the Japanese," General Yu said proudly.

"Except for brief sallies, the Japanese are restricted to the railway lines. When they get away from them, we strike. With our guerrilla tactics, we frequently surround them and wipe them out."

This miniature Red chin in central Hopen—the first province invaded by Japanese when the war started July 7—is only one of five small red states in the northern provinces. It is 200 miles behind Japanese lines, and between the Japanese-conquered Peking-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow railways.

General Yu spoke glowingly of the growth of anti-Japanism among millions of Chinese.

"We have a half-million farmer soldiers in training in this district alone," he said. "A quarter of a million boy spies, ranging from eight to 18 years old, keep us informed of Japanese movements."

"A quarter of a million women propagandists are arousing the people."

NEW REINFORCEMENTS
Shanghai, March 25.—(AP)—Chinese declared today that strong German-led reinforcements, including mechanized units, were bolstering their defenses as a new counter-offensive stretched the battle along the Tientsin-Pukow railway for a hundred miles.

They claimed a signal success in the counter-offensive in Shanghai province with occupation of Ningyang, 100 miles north of where Japanese have been trying to cross the Grand Canal.

Through a dense fog the advance guard made a surprise attack with General Chung-Jen personally commanding.

Previously the Chinese had attacked Japanese units, at the outskirts of Yenchow, slightly south, and in the neighborhood of battered Taining.

Chinese said another flying column had crossed a lake west of the Tientsin-Pukow and was strangling the Japanese supply line.

Simultaneously, Chinese said, repeated attacks were being made on Yihshien, east of the railway on a feeder line.

On the southern end of the line where Japanese have been advancing northward from Nanking toward Suowu, Chinese admitted withdrawing from Changping and another village behind the Japanese army, after having destroyed tracks and bridges.

Shensi province cavalry under General Ho Chu-Kuo crossed the Yellow river after an artillery duel, Chinese reported, and recaptured Hoku in northwestern Shensi province.

No Business Causes Industries To Close
Hillsboro, Ill., March 25.—(AP)—Three Montgomery industries are closing down because of lack of demand. The Hillsboro Coal company mine closed Thursday, stopping part time employment for several hundred men, the American Zinc company at Taylor Springs announced it would close April 1, throwing about 60 men out of employment. The Eagle-Picher Lead Works will close Monday because of lack of orders, for the first time in 19 years. The works employs about 40 men.

To Receive Advice On Plebiscite Cote
Vienna, March 25.—(AP)—All Catholic parishes in Austria will receive communications advising that Catholics vote "ja" in the plebiscite April 10 on Germany's annexation of Austria. Dr. Jacob Weinbach, secretary to Theodore Cardinal Innitzer, announced today.

Cardinal Innitzer is archbishop of Vienna, ranking Catholic prelate in Austria.

Catholic leaders generally felt optimistic over the prospect of close cooperation between the church and the Nazi state.

Washington.—The New York gubernatorial race, always the most fascinating in the country because of its presidential possibilities, has taken an interesting turn.

Latest move is toward the nomination of Senator Bob Wagner for the governorship and Judge Ferdinand Pecora for his place in the senate. This move has been talked before, but met no response from Senator Wagner.

Of late, however, he has been more sympathetic. Reason is that his son, Robert F., Jr., is a member of the New York assembly and the senator, who is wrapped up in the boy, would like nothing better than being with him at Albany.

From a harmony viewpoint the combination would be admirable. Wagner has fathered more New Deal legislation than almost any other senator. But he is also acceptable to Tammany and Old Guard Democrats. Simultaneously the administration would gain a hard-hitting New Deal senator in Fred Pecora, who put through the famous stock exchange investigation for the Senate.

NOTE—Under ordinary circumstances, Wagner's election as governor of New York would have important presidential possibilities, but it happens that he was born in Germany. Presidents must be natives of the United States.

Hoover In Europe

STERLING PAIR HELD HERE AS ROAD MENACES

W. T. Wendt, 50, and Miss Mabel Gaurapp, 30, both of Sterling, were taken in custody last evening about 6 o'clock by Patrolmen Giessner and McIntyre, about three miles east of Dixon near the River road, where their car had left the road and crashed into a ditch. Motorists coming to Dixon from the vicinity of the cement plant had urged the officers to apprehend an intoxicated driver who menaced cars on the Black Hawk trail.

The police drove to the Brierton school, where they found the car had left the highway, and followed in pursuit along gravel roads, unable to halt the driver because of the manner in which he was reported to be driving. As he approached the River road the car swerved from the narrow roadway and crashed into a deep ditch.

The couple was taken to the county jail and the wrecked car was hauled to a local garage. Neither of the parties was injured. They were to be arraigned before Judge Grover Gehant in the county court this afternoon, Wendt being charged with the operation of an automobile on a public highway while in an intoxicated condition.

Queen of Festival Asks Chicago Mayor To The Celebration

Chicago, March 25.—(AP)—Jeanette Faulkner, 21, of Mount Vernon, Ill., queen of the southern Illinois peach blossom festival, invited Mayor Edward J. Kelly today to be an honor guest at the annual celebration.

Queen Jeanette arrived on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad, bringing with her a carload of peach blossoms from Illinois' "Little Egypt" for distribution in Chicago hospitals.

Miss Faulkner was to be guest of honor at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Chicago executives club.

Board to Hear 364 Parole Applications

Springfield, Ill., March 25.—(AP)—The parole application of 364 Illinois prison inmates will be heard by parole board sub-committees at Menard, Pontiac and Joliet penitentiaries March 28.

The cases of 36 other persons returned on question of violation of parole also will be heard.

Seventy-six cases will be heard at Menard, 134 at Pontiac, and 200 at Joliet, including 129 from Stateville and one from Dwight.

Says Permanent Recovery Depends On End of Federal Political Ways

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Senator Bailey (D-NC) asserted today that "permanent recovery" would be reached only when the government ceased trying to "solve economic difficulties in a political way."

In an address to the American Academy of Political Science, Senator Bailey forecast that the American people would "pay the price, whatever it might be" to "preserve constitutional representative democracy."

He outlined these steps as among those essential to permanent recovery:

Abandonment of government policies tending to "impair incentive."

Elimination of the unproven profits tax and the present form of the capital gains taxes.

Abandonment of "the policy of government competition with private enterprise."

A balanced budget.

"A just law as between management and workers."

Encouragement of increased production of annual wealth instead of reduced production "to induce scarcity."

Ally business fears of a breakdown of the existing economic system.

GEOGRAPHY OF ENDERBURY AND CANTON TRACED

Pacific Outposts Of U. S.
Explored By Eclipse
Party

Canton and Enderbury Islands in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, which have just been claimed by the United States, were visited and explored 10 months ago by the National Geographic Society-U. S. Navy Expedition which observed the total eclipse of the sun on June 8, 1937. Canton Island was the base of the expedition and a landing also was made on Enderbury.

The two islands were visited by the expedition because they were among the few points of land within the entire 8,800-mile path of the eclipse shadow across the Pacific. Canton was selected as the observation point because it afforded a better anchorage for the expedition's ship, the Navy seaplane tender Avocet, and better landing facilities for the expedition's equipment.

Islands 32 Miles Apart
The two islands, of coral formation, are part of the Phoenix Group of eight islands, very nearly in the center of the Pacific Ocean and only a short distance south of the Equator.

Canton Island is approximately 175 miles south of the Equator, 1,850 miles southwest of Honolulu, 3,250 miles northwest of Sydney, Australia, and 4,150 miles from San Francisco. It is about 32 miles west-northwest of Enderbury.

As a result of observations in preparation for study of the eclipse, members found that Canton is about one and one-third miles farther west and 6 1/10 miles farther north than the position in which it had been recorded on maps up to that time. The corrected position of the observation point on the island is 171 degrees, 43 minutes, 10 seconds West Longitude, and 2 degrees, 49 minutes South Latitude.

Canton Island is shaped roughly like a hollow pork chop. A narrow strip of land from 50 to 600 yards wide and 27 miles in circumference encloses a quiet lagoon here and there with patches of coral. There is one entrance to this lagoon from the sea, on the west side, through which the Avocet's motor boat carried supplies for landing on the beach of the lagoon. At no point is the island more than 10 feet above high tide.

A few coconut palms are growing on Canton. Sea birds nest on it, and there are considerable numbers of rats and hermit crabs. The wreck of a ship on the shore supplied timber for a wharf built by the expedition on the lagoon beach. There is no drinking water on either of the islands, and the expedition members used water distilled from sea water on board the Avocet. They reported the temperature in May and June hovered between 80 and 90 degrees Fahrenheit, but the continuously-blowing trade winds helped to ease discomfort.

On Memorial Day, 1937, the expedition dedicated a concrete monument to commemorate its stay on Canton Island. The monument was five feet in height and unbedded in its sides were two metal representations of the American flag and two bronze medallions bearing the seal of the National Geographic Society. An eclipse expedition from New Zealand came to Canton on board H. M. S. Wellington after the arrival of the American party and camped near-by.

Enderbury Island is oblong in shape, approximately three and a half miles long and one and a half miles wide. A coral reef surrounds it, extending out from 100 to 200 yards offshore making landing difficult, and the expedition's ship found no satisfactory place to anchor. It has no central lagoon and is covered with loose coral rock. A few palm trees grow on it. The highest point of Enderbury Island is about 25 feet above high tide.

Large numbers of sea birds nest on Enderbury and there are heavy deposits of guano (bird manure). Some of this has been dug out and shipped away and a small railroad track used in hauling it to the water's edge still remains, along with an ancient cannon. Rats and hermit crabs are found, as on Canton.

Taken to Prison

Rockford, Ill., March 25—(AP)—Gordon Malm, 19, and Delora Wayne Montgomery, 16, were taken to the Joliet prison yesterday to start sentences imposed for the slaying of Malm's 82-year-old grandfather, Martin Pearson.

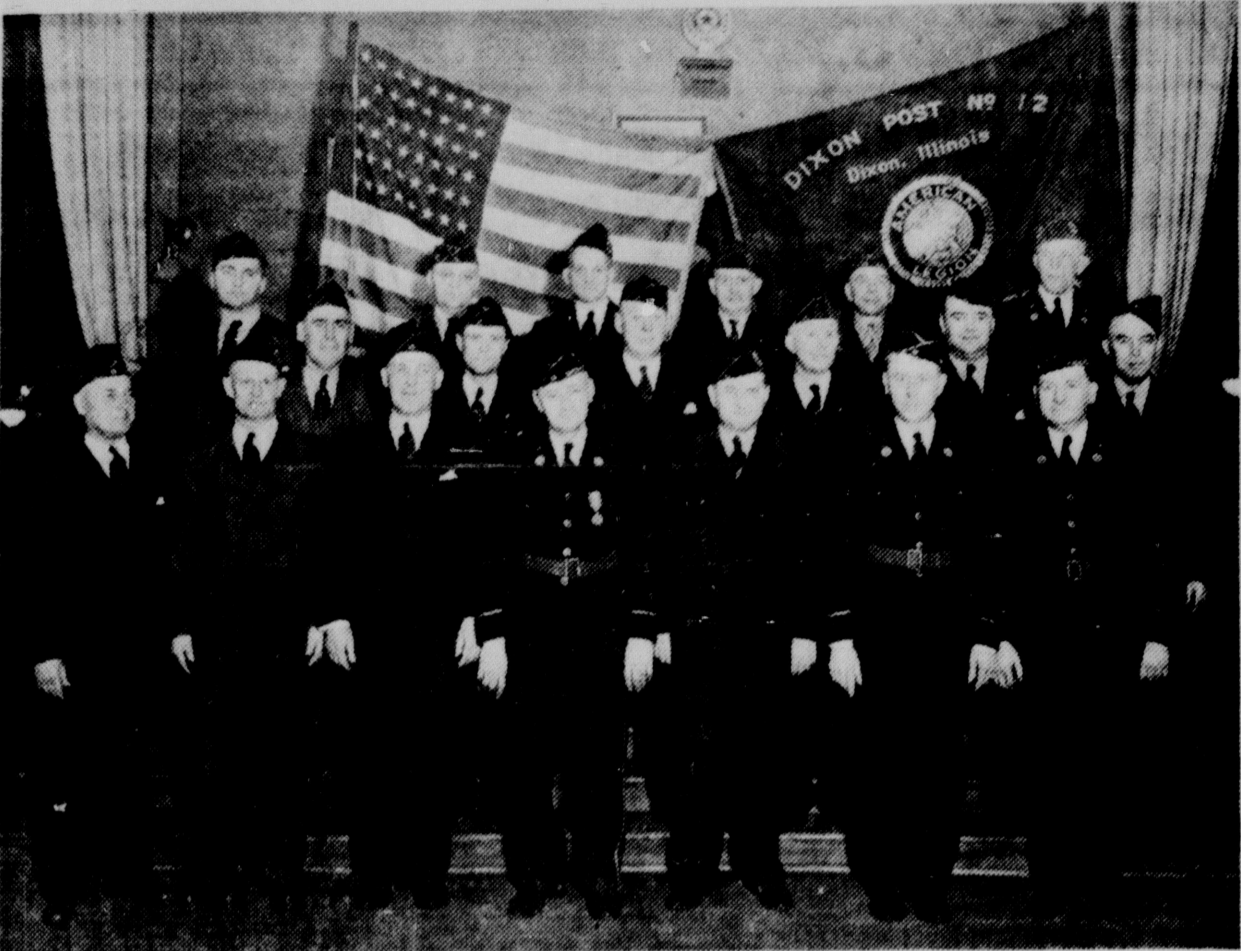

Malm, who inherited the aged man's estate of $7500, was sentenced last week to a 25-year term after he pleaded guilty. Montgomery was convicted by a jury and sentenced to 14 years.

Pearson was strangled last December during a $40 robbery.

Dixon Legion Commanders Are Living

Dixon post No. 12, American Legion, proudly points to a distinction the members doubt any other Legion post can boast—all of its commanders since its organization are living and all are residents of Dixon. As shown above they are, left to right:

Top row—Sherwood Dixon, Rae Arnold, Walter Mueller, Carl Newman, Clarence Shaver and Walter M. Smith.

Center row—Arthur Handell, Joseph Villiger, Robert Anderson, Lloyd Lewis, Fred Ruben and present Commander W. C. Wood.

Bottom row—Z. W. Moss, Willard Thompson, Theodore J. Miller, Jacob Snyder, Dudley Freidline, Walter Fallstrom and E. N. Bower.

Past Commander Bower is a strong supporter of the junior drum and bugle corps. While a patient in Hines hospital during the winter of 1936, ex-commander Bower visualized a junior drum and bugle corps for Dixon. Upon his return to active post duty, he appointed Arthur G. Holman to form the corps. Mr. Holman was instrumental in organizing Beverly Hills post, No. 409 drill team, who are state and past national Legion champions. He also organized Beverly Hills post senior drum and bugle corps.

Mr. Bower recognized that the youth of Dixon must be served and that by becoming a member of the drum and bugle corps, it would be an incentive for the boy, and eventually make him a good citizen. In a report to the press, he stated that he hopes the corps will grow and be of credit to Dixon.

The committee in charge has every confidence in the boys and trusts that the citizens will support the present movement to supply funds to make the corps the most outstanding in Illinois.

Support of the campaign now in progress to raise funds with which to equip the Sons of Legionnaires drum and bugle corps is everywhere and the move has received many endorsements. E. Miller, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said:

"I sincerely believe that the Sons of American Legion post No. 12, drum and bugle corps, merits the support of all Dixon citizens. They made a wonderful showing last year and now that they need new uniforms and instruments, we all should do our part. It is one of the finest organizations that Dixon has ever had. Let's all get back of them and help put over their drive for funds on Monday, March 28."

Postmaster George J. Pruett adds his commendation as follows:

"I have watched with interest the organization and development of the Sons of American Legion squadron and I feel that Dixon is very fortunate in having an organization of this kind.

"The objective is as I understand it, to keep the boys interested in sports, music, etc., and to create surroundings that will make good citizens."

"The fast development of the drum and bugle corps division is particularly interesting. As well as providing entertainment, it will be a fine advertisement for Dixon."

"It is a great pleasure for me to endorse this group of boys and I believe every one in Dixon feels as I do and I feel sure that all will do everything possible to assist them to greater things."

land, it also obtains an official record of all U. S. winners.

However, prize-winners do not have to pay their taxes immediately. No distinction is drawn between Sweepstakes winnings and other forms of income—a fact that occasionally has cost the Government a nice chunk of money, since the winner, by the time the regular tax payment date arrives, sometimes has run through his winnings and is broke. In that case the Government tries to collect by seeking other assets, but usually that is futile.

While the Treasury derives several hundred thousand dollars a year from the Irish Sweepstakes, the process of extracting the money is not an easy one. There are plenty of headaches for the tax collectors.

Besides claims of split ownership and vanished funds, Treasury agents encounter instances of big prize winners decamping from the U. S. in order to avoid paying taxes. In one case of this kind last year, the tax dodger tried to make a deal with the Government by offering to settle for $5,000 if permitted to return. He was turned down and still is living abroad.

Another frequent complication is the claim for exemption on the ground that the ticket holder sold a share of his ticket to a foreign speculator.

One group of winners which get off without paying a tax are the recipients of the small $500 "consolation" prizes. The incomes of most of them, even with their winnings, are not enough to bring them into the taxable class, so they pay nothing.

Merry-Go-Round

The voice behind the New Deal film, "The River," is the voice of Tom Chalmers, actor and grand opera singer, who toured the country 25 years ago in "The Girl of the Golden West" . . . "The River" is now published as a book . . . When Indiana's flag-waving Congresswoman, Virginia E. Jenckes saw an article about herself in the Hoosier Sentinel, written by Bob Menaugh, she ordered 20,000 copies to distribute to her constituents . . . Caught by a quick roll-call in the House recently, two members appeared without collar or tie. Bill Lamberton of Kansas was taking a work-out in the gym when the bell sounded, and Bob Ramsay of West Virginia was under the barber's shears . . . Last session Representative Dick Kleberg, of Texas, millionaire owner of the famed King Ranch, largest in the world, drove one of his high-priced cars about the Capital. But he had so much trouble with dented fenders and body scratches that he is now driving a practical but unhandsome "station wagon" which he nonchalantly parks alongside the swanky motors of his colleagues. FAA BEGINS ITS ACTION AGAINST PEORIA COMPANY

Washington, March 25—(AP)—

The federal alcohol administration received opening testimony Thursday in proceedings for suspending rectifiers' and distillers' permits of Arrow Distilleries, Inc., of Peoria, Ill.

A motion of the company's counsel for dismissal of the action on jurisdictional grounds was denied by Hearing Officer W. H. Jacobs.

Testimony dealt with the alleged misbranding of liquor from the Peoria firm. FAA representatives said hearings on other allegations contained in the administration announcement of December 16 probably would be held later in Iowa, Ky., and at Peoria.

The administration charged the company falsified records by making entries showing sales to firms in Kentucky, when the products were destined for Iowa and Minnesota for sale or use "contrary to state laws."

The FAA charged liquor distributed by the company was misbranded as to age, asserting that in one instance a label stated liquor was three years old when it actually was less than six months.

Richard W. Janney, investigator, identified Arrow Distilleries product he said he had obtained at Madson, Wis., Milwaukee, and Gary, Ind. These were received as exhibits over objections.

Plan Bar Primary

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 25—(AP)—Definite decision to hold a "bar primary" letting attorneys vote on their preferences for a successor to the late Justice Lott R. Herrick of the Illinois Supreme Court, was announced today by George H. Webb, secretary of the Third District Federation of Local Bar Associations. Ballots listing candidates suggested by local bar groups will be distributed April 1, with voting to close April 11.

Mrs. Sam Wallin Entertained For Home Bureau Unit

Mrs. Sam Wallin, assisted by her sister, Miss Marie Hauser, entertained the Marion unit of Home Bureau on Wednesday of last week.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. Helen Levan, at 1:45 and the usual business session followed.

Because of the absence of the minor project leader no minor lesson was given.

The major lesson, the third in a series of laundry lessons, was conducted by Home Adviser Elizabeth Coleman. This lesson treated in particular the correct method of washing and rinsing wool blankets and finer silks. Such questions as temperature of wash water, rinse water, how long in the wash, in the rinse, how to dry and iron, when to use, how to soften hard water, and many others which many members thought they knew the answers to, only to learn they were not.

treating their woolen and silks in the correct way.

The reading of labels found on sheets and blankets and the study of samples was very instructive. Women are not always going to be the blind buyers they have been and the ability to ask intelligent questions of the merchants is being developed by Home Bureau. Increased knowledge is making homemakers more appreciative of values and less likely to be influenced by "smooth" sales talk.

The recreation period was enjoyed by all, taking the form of unusual contests. Refreshments served by the hostess were most appreciating and in keeping with the St. Patrick's season.

The April meeting date will be the fourth Monday instead of the regular third Wednesday. Members are asked to note the change of date.

Mrs. Henry Jacobs, living on the Dutch road, will be the hostess for the April meeting and it will be called to order at 1:30.

Much interest was manifested in the amateur night which is being sponsored by the Lee county Home Bureau in the Amboy Opera House March 30-31.

Mrs. Harold Donnelly has been named talent chairman for Marion and Mrs. C. C. Ackert, ticket chairman.

Members are planning a full day of pleasure and information for April 14, at which time they go on a tour of some of the manufacturing companies of Dixon.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

The birthday of J. H. Bell was celebrated last night by the members of the Community Rounders who gathered at his home for an evening of five hundred. Mrs. Ira Rutt was awarded high score of the ladies and Clarence Greenfield was given high score for the men. Low score awards were given to Mrs. Mary Eastman and Daniel Ortgiesen. Twenty-one guests were present and refreshments were served.

ON PROGRAM

Miss Betty Jean Mossholder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mossholder, will be on a program to be given over a Rockford radio station tomorrow afternoon between 2:15 and 2:30 o'clock.

Many Attend Church Fellowship Dinner Here Last Evening

About 110 members and friends of the First Christian church sat down together last evening at the first general Brotherhood dinner observed throughout the national and the world by the Disciples of Christ. This was one of several thousand such fellowship dinners observed simultaneously.

Assembling at the tables the congregation joined in singing the doxology followed by the prayer of thanksgiving by Rev. James A. Barnett, the pastor. A sumptuous scramble dinner was enjoyed with a happy fellowship at the tables. Following the dinner a very interesting program was carried out.

A most interesting feature of the service was an exchange of greetings with other churches. Greetings by mail were exchanged with the Christian churches at Polo, Lanark, Rockford, Princeton, Galesburg, Freeport and Mt. Morris. A message of greeting was voted by the congregation and exchanged by telephone with Sterling Christian church and Rock Falls church. Pine Creek church also sent a greeting by phone.

Receive Greetings

Messages of congratulation and greeting were received from the various missionary agencies and from foreign countries. Mrs. Frances Biggs read a message each from W. H. Walker, state secretary of Christian churches of Bloomington, and Mrs. Stella Peck, chairman of women's missionary work. Greetings from Canada, Mexico, Japan, Paraguay and India were read by Mrs. J. F. Kindig. Those from Africa, China, Philippine Islands, Argentina and Great Britain were read by Miss Goida Cunningham. James G. Leach read the several messages from nearby congregations, while H. W. Stauffer brought the messages phoned in. Two former pastors of the local church sent letters of greeting and congratulation, Rev. H. Zandt of Galesburg, and Finis Idelman, of Central church, New York. The latter were read by Mrs. Nellie Palmer, sister-in-law of Rev. Mr. Idelman. Two charter members of the church were present, Clinton Fahney and Mrs. George Engle.

Helpful Program

A most helpful and interesting program consisting of four 10 minute talks was then enjoyed. H. W. Stauffer spoke upon "The Life of the Brotherhood." "The Work of the Brotherhood" was presented in a concise and interesting manner by Mrs. Lawrence Poole. Miss Julia Amell, in her charming and appealing way, spoke upon "The Church of the World Today." In conclusion the pastor spoke upon "The Answer of the Brotherhood."

Birthday banks were placed on tables and a gift to missions was received amounting to $22.00. Mrs. J. A. Barnett gave the offertory prayer.

The tables were tastefully decorated for the occasion and an abundance of good things to eat was provided for the guests. Mrs. G. S. Parks, president of the Ladies Aid society, acted as general chairman of the menu committee. She was ably assisted by Mrs. Gail Stauffer, Mrs. Harriet Lebre, Mrs. Winifred Wells, Mrs. Lawrence Poole, Mrs. Donald Anderson, Miss Savilla Palmer and Miss Olive Boos.

TO REPEAT

PLAY TONIGHT—The Stony Point P. T. A. presented the home talent play, "Where's Grandmother?" last night to a capacity audience. The play will be repeated tonight.

Mrs. C. R. Walgreen To Speak Saturday At Club Meeting

The Dixon Woman's club will hold its regular meeting at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at St. Luke's church. Mrs. Charles Walgreen will give an illustrated talk on flower shows held in Chicago for the past several years.

These competitive flower shows are held each year at Navy Pier at which time Illinois garden clubs vie with each other for the coveted prizes. This year the 12th annual show begins on April 2 and continues, open to the public, for 10 days. The theme, one with elaborate possibilities, is "Gardens from Maine to California."

Mrs. Walgreen has been actively connected with these shows, and at present is a member of the state board of the Illinois Garden club. She will show a number of pictures of the flower show exhibits, also dinner, luncheon and tea-tables.

The American Home and Garden Department committee feels it has a treat in store for the flower lovers of the Dixon club and hopes a good attendance will be out to hear Mrs. Walgreen, one of the club's own members, and reminisce with her of the beauties of the flower shows of the past. The committee is composed of the following members: Mrs. Howard Edwards, chairman, Mrs. Lex Hartzell, Mrs. Arthur Morris, Mrs. Kreider Woods, Mrs. Harry Edwards, Mrs. Burl Lepard, Mrs. W. B. Richardson and Mrs. Charles Willett.

The Woman's club chorus, directed by Mrs. W. C. Kleaveland, will sing, this being its first appearance before the club. Mrs. Howard Edwards will be the accompanist.

AT RECI-TAL

Others, besides those listed the other night, who attended the recital of Cornelia Otis Skinner in Sterling Tuesday evening include: Miss Margaret Davies, Miss Elizabeth Davies, Mrs. Lex Hartzell, Miss Naomi Woll, Miss Helen O'Brien, Mrs. W. Clayton, Miss Bergstedt, Miss Ruth Krez, Miss Alice Richardson, Misses Nan Warner, Alice Hintz, Mary Louise Smith, Norma Crawford, Carol Crawford, Reta Jean Keithley, Mae Eichler, Mrs. Isador Eichler, Mrs. Kreider Wood, Mrs. Harry Edwards, Mrs. Member, Mrs. Wimpleberg, Mrs. Geo. Smith, Mrs. T. J. Miller, Mrs. Geo. Bort, Myrtle Swarts, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Worsley, Mrs. Philip Reilly, Mrs. Edward Vaile, Mrs. Sam Stansfield, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hanson, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Tarnawski, Mrs. Burl Lepard.

Ladies Honored By Elks Last Evening

About 125 ladies of members of Dixon lodge of Elks were entertained at the club house last evening, the occasion being the annual Ladies Night. Dr. R. E. Worsley and the members of his house committee served a chicken supper at 6:30, after which a fine program of entertainment which was arranged by M. M. Memler, was enjoyed. The program was as follows:

Piano selection—Orval Gearhart.
Song and acrobatic dance duo—Edward Stewart and Betty Ross Martin.
Song and guitar number—McMillon sisters.
Tango tap dance—Keller sisters.
Accordion selections—Billy McNichols.
Harmonica and bones selections—Devine twins, John and James.
Dance numbers from Miss Elsie Nell's school of dancing, accompanied by Mrs. W. R. Hardy.

THEIR TROUBLE IS THAT THEY WON.

"Our trouble is that we won," said Lincoln Steffens, reviewing the muckraking era and the campaign for the self-confessed "progressives" until after the war.

If we seem to overwork that quotation, it is because it now is living in an era when there are so many persons who find that their trouble is that they won.

Outstanding of the moment is the case of Manuel Quezon and his Filipino followers. Quezon has all the qualities of a practical politician. He would do as well in the Empty-Umph ward of Chicago as in the islands. He is what we know in this country as a "rabble rouser," and this country knows more about rabble rousers now than it has known in a long time.

He conceived the issue of independence for the Philippines as one that would have special appeal to the people of the islands. It did have. Independence seemed remote, and the issue appeared to be good for many years. It was good for numerous elections. It kept Quezon in office and furnished him an occasional trip to Washington to press his demands.

Suddenly the depressed farmers of the United States decided that there was too much free competition between the vegetable oils of the Philippines and the animal oils of the corn belt, and they told their representatives in congress that if the Filipinos wanted independence and along with it would give up the free market in the United States and would give up their notion that the guardian government should furnish a navy, independence for the islands was all right with them.

Quezon probably was surprised when he got independence so suddenly.

It deprived him of a political issue at home, and, anyhow he is not sure his people want independence right now. There's Japan, you know—and that stuff.

We do not see that the Japanese bugaboo is any greater now than it has been all the time Quezon has been demanding independence. It was a stock phrase that if the Philippine islands were given independence, the Japanese would gobble them. Japan has more to occupy its attention elsewhere now than it had then.

The United States congress agreed to grant independence to the islands on the installment plan. There was provided the manner in which the islands should give up their free trade with the United States and should begin paying tariffs. There was provided the incentive for the islands to loon up new markets and to look after new markets. There was provided a time when the United States should terminate its responsibility for defense of the islands against aggression of other governments.

Time is going fast. Dates that at first seemed remote are approaching rapidly. Manuel Quezon and his Filipino voters see themselves as defenseless little islands in a large Pacific ocean, a few diamonds that powerful nations would like. They feel the responsibility of finding new markets to take the place of the free American trade held for forty years by reason of being wards of the United States. They shrink from the responsibilities for which they pleaded.

Of course, what Quezon wants now is that the politicians shall be free to make trouble, but that the United States shall furnish the markets and the naval defense.

The trouble with Manuel Quezon and his followers is that they won.

OUR "LAWLESS YOUTH"

The charge by Dr. Jay B. Nash, New York university professor, that the United States has the most lawless group of young men and women to be found in any civilized land is a bit too much for a sensible person to swallow. Dr. Nash got excited the other day and warned that unless the present disregard for organized law is curbed, a situation is threatened where a "strong arm" will take over the country and know what to do.

Going on to point out that American educators don't seem to comprehend what fine things children's camps are, Professor Nash called attention to the fact that the totalitarian states have long realized the importance of youth organizations and youth camps and he reminded one and all that one of Germany's first acts after abolishing Austria was to absorb the Boy Scouts into Hitler's youth movement.

Mindful that the old saw about the right to say it holds as true as ever, there remains a sinister ring to Professor Nash's remarks that will prove exceedingly distasteful to the average American ear.

And disregarding the indictment of America's "lawless" youth—which can't be proved—there are a lot of people who think lawlessness is at least no worse than war. And war is just exactly the art in which the youth of totalitarian states is trained from babyhood.

TOO GOOD — TOO THRIFTY

There are probably several morals to be drawn from the life of Thomas Bamford and you can take your choice. Testifying in a Philadelphia court, Mrs. Jennie Bamford, aged 60, declared that her husband Thomas didn't drink, smoke, gamble, or make advances at other women—until he reached the age of 72. Then, according to Mrs. Bamford, he suddenly kicked over the traces; he partook of liquor, he smoked, he flirted.

Mrs. Bamford said she could have stood all this if Thomas had only lost one more virtue along with the others. But, it seems, he still retained his habit of thrift. Mrs. Bamford said she saw only five movies in their 30 years of married life and that she never ate a meal in a restaurant until she got a $12 weekly support order. After listening to her story, the judge denied Bamford's petition for reduction of the order.

So Thomas Bamford apparently got tired of being good, but didn't get tired of being thrifty. Maybe it was the Ben Franklin influence.

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

The story so far: Jumping his horse over the sacred boxwood hedge surrounding Goodloe's Choice in the Maryland hunting district, Reuben Oliver is thrown and injured. Reuben is in love with Judith Goodloe but his self-made fortune isn't enough to make him acceptable. Judith blames him for delaying the proposal she expected from dashing Gary Brent, Red-headed Cissy Rogers, in love with Reuben and jealous of Judith, delays it still longer by walking off with Gary.

CHAPTER 10 Gary's News

The moment when Judith came to the door of his room to ask how he was, marked a high peak in Reuben's life. The nurse had gone to breakfast. He was alone. Then, almost as though his longing had brought her, Judith, in blue linen, was standing in the doorway.

"I hope you're feeling better?" Speech deserted him.

"You had a dreadful spill." Her voice was soothing.

He found his tongue. "It was your fault."

"Mine?"

"You were laughing at me." His shoulders against the pillows involuntarily slumped a little. "After that—I couldn't make the grade."

He looked very young this morning. She saw his eyes, bronze, unfathomable. She was unable to draw her own from them or to deny his accusation.

"It's true," slowly, "I did laugh."

"I deserved it. That's why it hurt."

She was remembering last night—long, wakeful, miserable. "Sorry. I won't do it again."

He couldn't think of a thing more to say. Strangely he had always been read with words to bend men to his will. Ready with a smile—slow—a trifle indulgent—women found fascinating.

Judith turned to go. He must keep her—just to look at her gave him a feeling of exaltation—but he lacked courage. While he sought for it, light, quick feet came down the hall, and Cissy stood by Judith in the doorway.

He had forgotten Cissy—

"Ha. Lochnivar from out of the West! The trusty steed had his little fling, I hear!"

Her arms were filled with flowers. Her face above was bright as the morning. "I'm sorry you could not come last night," she greeted Judith. "We missed you."

"Sweet of you."

"We danced until morning in your big old rooms. Reuben. Then we had a swim and breakfast."

She dumped her armful of fragrant blooms on Reuben's bed and turned again to Judith. "I brought Gary back to you."

"Sweet of you." With a smile for Cissy and a wave for Reuben, Judith went. Jealousy, the first she had ever known, rage, and a faint shame went with her.

"Reuben Oliver is a very rich man," Judith's thoughts followed that line persistently.

"Money hardly counts with the Rogers."

"What else would count with that sort of people?"

Miles Apart

Gary looked at her from good-natured blue eyes. "What's the matter with you this morning, Judy?"

"Guess I'm upside down like the house. The whole place smells like a hospital."

They found the bench where Judith had waited last night. They sat down, side by side. Miles apart. What had happened that life could be like this?

Gary lit a cigarette. Judith involuntarily touched his hand that cupped the match. He smiled at her above the flame, his easy good humor quite restored. "There's no one like you, Judy."

"I'm beginning to believe it," grimly.

"Bluffer, you've always known it. After I've been away for awhile just the thought of you makes me homesick."

The soreness left her heart. He always came back — "Was that what you wanted to tell me?"

"S-say! I never did get around to that, did I?"

"There wasn't time." She could believe that now.

"Best news you ever heard," Gary exhaled a spiral of smoke. "I wrote you about Galbreath, a capitalist I met in London?"

"Yes."

"He owns mines and timber all through the West — rolling in wealth. He was drenched appreciative. Proved it. I'm to manage his timber holdings in California, Nevada, Oregon—a crackerjack job."

At first she did not understand, then knew she was expected to say something, something congratulatory—"But—can you—do you know anything about it?"

"Practically nothing, but I can learn—bluff while I'm doing it."

"I—see." Blood drummed in her ears.

"It was a godsend to me," Gary confessed. "Like Custer I was about to make my last stand. But now—watch my smoke!"

The drumming in her ears increased to a roar. She could hardly hear her voice above it. "You're going away?"

"Almost immediately." (Copyright, 1938, Blanche Smith Ferguson)

Gary got to his feet when she stepped out upon the porch. He was immaculate in a blue serge suit out of Bond Street. "Good morning, darling!" He ignored his desertion of last evening. "Just seeing you starts the day right. Aren't I the early bird?"

"Which reminds me that I haven't fed the peacocks. Want to come along?"

"She's A Honey"

She led the way to the kitchen garden. From a peg of the grape arbor she took a small basket of grain and opening a little wicket gate, walked down a red brick path, under apple and peach trees, past clipped raspberry bushes with fruit coming to perfection; until she came to a wired enclosure, where, with the morning sun turning their plumage to glory, a half dozen peacocks strutted proudly.

"You missed a great time last night," Gary fumbled with the gate's fastening. "Oliver is fixing the place up fit for a king."

"So Jim says," Judith flung a handful of grain to the oncoming fowls.

"Jim drifted in before the party was over."

"Jim is always drifting somewhere—late."

Gary smiled reminiscently. "I'll bet he was sorry he didn't come earlier. It was that kind of party. They were a friendly crowd."

"Aren't Western people always friendly?" Where was the rapture of yesterday?

Gary said: "Great hostess—Cissy. She," amusedly, "keeps things humming."

"She looks like a child."

"Older than you. Almost 23."

And what she doesn't know about planes!"

"You're keen about them?"

"Who isn't? She's been taking off since she was a kid—before she was old enough to have a license."

"I—didn't know." She must take more interest in planes. "She's engaged to Reuben Oliver?"

"Heavens, no! Cissy's a celebrity—She can marry anybody!"

"I—didn't know."

"Read your rolograture," advised Gary. "For a while everyone thought C. C. Rogers was a man, and when they found out the daredevil was a redheaded child—Isn't she a honey, Judy?"

"Reuben Oliver is a very rich man," Judith's thoughts followed that line persistently.

"Money hardly counts with the Rogers."

"What else would count with that sort of people?"

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

A fascinating pastime with

Albert Edward Wiggam, S. Sc. Author of "THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND"

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Nothing queer about Sue and Walt falling in love—there is a marked tendency all through nature for like to mate with like. If the stock is good the results are good. Yet, in one kind of marriage Mother Smith is right — those of the feeble-minded and inadequate. Where like marries like among them, the children get defectiveness from both sides and don't amount to much. The remedy, of course, is not for them to marry their opposites—the well-balanced and intelligent—but not to marry at all—or, at least, not to produce children. It is a fascinating game to study your married friends and see how much alike and unlike they are, especially in body build and appearance.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. You have a voice, haven't you? Also hands, arms, feet, legs, etc., to gesture with, and, at least, a little brains. Well, that's all that is necessary for making a good speech. The rest is really wanting —not to make an impression on others—but to tell them something you think is important for them to know. Think out clearly what this is—practice it before the mirror until you can say it in your sleep—and the job is done. And, incidentally, you will find it has added a thousand per cent to your self-confidence and your personality.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. According to a leading psychologist, reckless driving indicates the driver is trying to compensate for his feeling of inferiority and failure by outdoing others on the road. He gets the sense of victory and success in the place of the feeling of defeat which he has in other endeavors of life. Better watch your own driving when you have a strong feeling of inferiority.

B. V. M.—Read St. John 4:19-26

Ye worship ye know not what we know what we worship: for salvation is of the Jews. But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him.

Picture the scene: the well-head with its circular kerb, cross-bar and hanging rope; our Lord seated there, and the woman with her pitcher. His face is filled with the divine desire which thirsts for the souls of men; hers is slowly kindling in response. Out of this never-to-be-forgotten interview we can here dwell only on one point. God has appointed a church which builds for itself temples made with hands; and in them we ought to meet for our common worship. But we come together in vain unless our spirit is full of the desire for inward worship, worship arising out of our whole life with all its faculties. So we must be, building within our own hearts houses of prayer and praise, where we may find God at all hours of the day or night.

The Church with psalms must shout, No door can keep them out: But above all the heart Must bear the longest part. Let all the world in every corner sing— My God and King!

BATTLESHIP VICTORIOUS AT AINTREE

Another Famous Son Of Man-O-War 4th U. S. Winner

Aintree, Eng., March 25—(AP)—BattleShip, Mrs. Marion Scott's American-owned son of Man O' War, today won the 100th running of the Grand National before a crowd of 250,000.

H. C. McNauley's Royal Danieli was second and Sir Alex MacGuire's Workman third in the field of 36. In scoring the fourth American victory in the history of the race, BattleShip paid 40 to 1. Royal Danieli was held at 18 to 1 and Workman at 28 to 1.

BattleShip, up with the leaders from the start, scored by a head in the closest finish in recent years.

Almost Dead Heat

The first three horses came to the last fence almost on even terms but Workman dropped far back in the final test as BattleShip, ridden by Bruce Hobbs, and Royal Danieli staged a thrilling duel.

James V. Rank's Coolen, one of the favorites, was fourth; J. B. Snow's American-owned Delancey, fifth; E. T. Hunt's Red Knight 2nd, sixth; Arthur Sainsbury's favored Blue Shirt, seventh; S. A. Silley's Hopeful Hero, eighth; Lord Derby's Underb, ninth; Rank's Bachelor Prince, tenth; Mrs. S. H. Creach's Lough Cottage, eleventh, and Mrs. J. De Selincourt's Provocative, twelfth.

Rock Lad, owned by H. R. Bain of Toronto, was injured seriously when he fell and was destroyed.

14 AMERICANS WIN

New York, March 25—(AP)—Fourteen Americans won $150,000 each today when BattleShip, the American-owned son of Man O' War, carried their hopes of quick wealth first across the line of the Grand National at Aintree, England.

Eight other Americans each won $75,000 on Royal Danieli, second place winner of the 100th running of the steeplechase classic.

Workman, third place winner, brought fortunes of $50,000 each to eight Americans.

This boosted the total of American winnings to $4,671,946.

Unlucky ticket holders left more than half as much with the hospital fund as the lucky ticket holders won.

Buyers paid $13,730,010 for their chances to get rich quick.

Winners were paid a total of $8,057,600. That left a balance of $5,672,410.

Approximately $7,552,000 crossed the Atlantic from the United States and American holders were assured of $1,641,406 even before the race was run.

With BattleShip's victory, the United States scored its first American-owned and bred victory in the history of the Grand National, whose distance is four miles and 856 yards.

Only one other American-bred horse, Rubbo, ever won the jumping classic but he carried the silks of an Englishman to the front in 1908.

Three other American-owned horses—Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Kellsboro Jack, Charles Schwartz's Jack Horner and Stephen Sanford's Sergeant Murphy—have won the race, but they all were bred in England.

In winning the purse of approximately $35,000, BattleShip covered the distance in nine minutes, 29 4-5 seconds.

Mellon Owed U. S. $403,053 In 1931 For Income Taxes

Washington, March 25—(AP)—The board of tax appeals has fixed $403,053 plus interest as the amount of 1931 income taxes owed by the late Andrew W. Mellon for 1931.

This concluded, as far as the board was concerned, a sensational dispute of many years in which the internal revenue bureau tried to collect more than $2,000,000 from Mellon and to prove he was guilty of income tax fraud. The board ruled a few months ago that Mellon was innocent of the fraud charge and laid down legal principles which wiped out most of the government claim. The exact amount, however, was left to be determined by attorneys for both sides on the basis of the board's legal ruling.

Only Three Strokes Separate Top Ten; North-South Meet

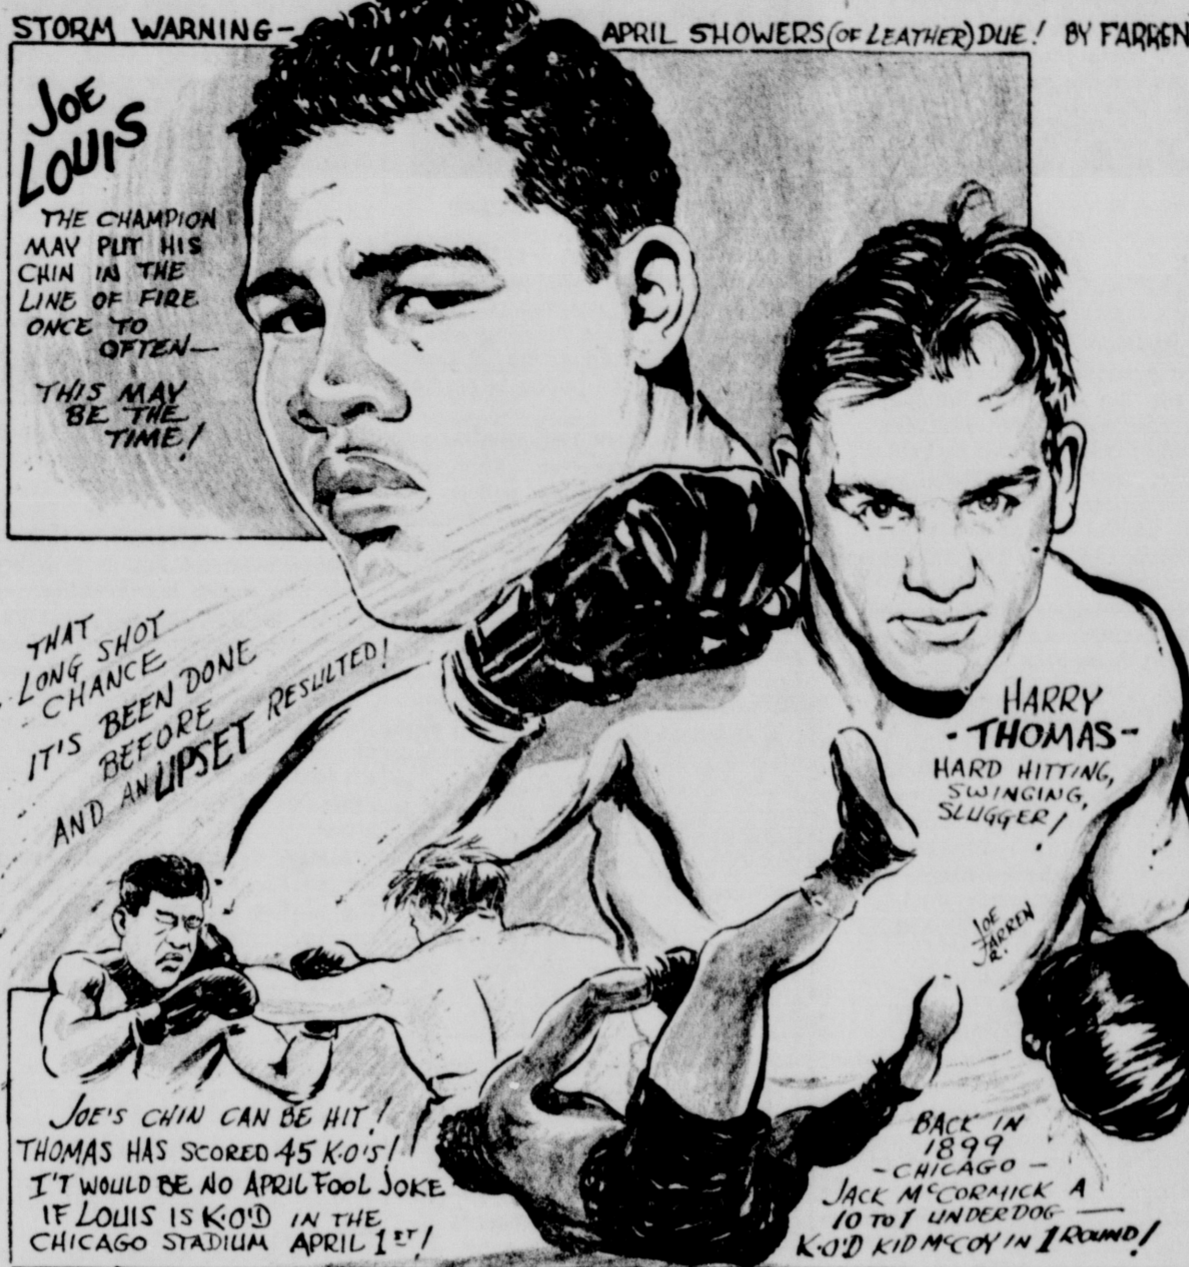

Pinehurst, N. C., March 25—(AP)—A mere three strokes separated the 10 top scorers today as three-score pros and amateurs started out over Pinehurst's rugged and treacherous No. 2 course on the 36-hole final of the North and South golf tournament.

Bunched in the lead with 141's were Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. C., the veteran Ed Dudley of Augusta, Ga., and Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa. Only a stroke behind them were E. J. Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., Denny Shute of West Newton, Mass., and Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, L. I.

A trio of 143's bracketed Leonard Dodson of Springfield, Mo., Jim Turney of Providence, R. I., and Bobby Cruikshank of Richmond, Va. Harry Cooper of Chicopee, Mass., was alone at 144.

During 1937, 3187 airplanes and 6014 engines were delivered by the airplane and engine manufacturers of the United States. It was the best year for the aircraft industry since the World War.

Activities of Major League Teams in the South and West Prior to Opening of Baseball Season

By The Associated Press
Pasadena, Calif.—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox is determined to make the club good defensively even if it costs hitting power. After trading Zeke Bonura for Joe Kuhel he is sticking to his purpose of developing Larry Rosenthal, a fine fielder, as a regular outfielder in place of the weak-fielding but heavy-hitting Rip Radcliff.

Los Angeles—The Chicago Cubs will have Augie Galan in left, Joe Marty in center and Frank Demaree in right when the season opens.

Tampa, Fla.—Larry (Bonus) MacPhail, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, believes in paying off on the spot. Cookie Lavagetto broke up yesterday's ball game with a 360-foot homer and MacPhail, who has offered Cookie rewards for luster hitting, promptly dug down and came up with $10 for the circuit club.

Sebring, Fla.—Spud Chandler, the right-hander who went so well with the New York Yankees last year before a sore arm put him on the sidelines, is making a bid for a starting berth with the champions.

Baton Rouge, La.—According to Bill Terry, hard work is the only antidote when a team becomes self-satisfied. So the colonel had his New York Giants out of bed at 9 a. m. and practicing at the ball park. Result: After two nightmarish trimmings by the Athletics they beat New Orleans of the Southern Association.

Tampa, Fla.—The Cincinnati Reds' manager, Bill McKechnie, planned to throw Lee Grissom and Whitely Moore against the Dodgers today to get even for Wednesday's defeat. The Reds were on their good behavior after dropping one yesterday to Kansas City, an event that filled the deacon with wrath.

New Orleans—Bob Feller has not yet been scored on in the eight innings he has pitched for the Cleveland Indians in exhibition games. He has allowed only three hits, all singles, in four innings against the Giants and four more against the Athletics yesterday. The Tribe meets the A's again today.

Orlando, Fla.—Outfielder Al Simmons, who didn't break down any fences last year, is batting around 600 this spring for the Washington Senators.

San Antonio, Tex.—The release of outfielder Ed Silber to San Antonio of the Texas league was announced today by Bill Dewitt, vice-president of the St. Louis Browns. Shortstop Floyd Baker who has been training with the Browns also was sent to San Antonio's camp at Laredo.

Pinehurst, N. C., Mar. 25—(AP)—Henry Picard, still in this corner's golfer... Yesterday in the North and South he took five putts on the fourth hole, but was one under par at the 17th and finished with a 73... Paul Runyan said his 73 was one of the best rounds of his career because he was in so many bunkers... Ted Luther, the Pittsburgh pro, put on a putting exhibition for the gallery... He one-putted no less than 13 greens for his 69... Horton Smith said it was the greatest exhibition of "putting 'em in there" he had ever seen.

Biloxi, Miss.—Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Phillies ordered another long batting drill today.

New Orleans—The Philadelphia Athletics sought to turn the tables on the Cleveland Indians today after dropping yesterday's encounter, 9 to 4.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Billy Rogell, Detroit Tiger shortstop, will be back with the team in 10 days, according to Dr. Grover Freeman, who lanced an abscess in Rogell's left hand, an ailment resulting from a stone bruise.

Acadia, Fla.—Concern over Joe Vosmik's injured ankle was temporarily in the Red Sox camp by news held out Eric McNair would report Sunday, "at our terms," according to President Tom Yawkey. Vosmik strained the ligaments in his ankle several days ago and the club decided to call a Sarasota specialist today.

Bartow, Fla.—The Boston Bees put aside golfing and fishing after yesterday's layoff, and took on Indianapolis of the American Association today.

Four Challengers To Handball Title Held By Chicagoan

Memphis, Tenn., March 25—(AP)—A quartet of well-conditioned, keen-eyed athletes remained today in the running for the national A. U. handball championship, now held by Chicago's Joe Platak.

Platak, thrice champion, was one of the four. He was matched against Jack Srenco, the fourth ranking player from St. Louis.

In the lower bracket Sam Aatcherson of Memphis, the second ranking performer, met Jack Clements, San Francisco, former national junior champion.

50-Yard Free Style And 1500 Meter-Grind First

New Brunswick, N. J., March 25—(AP)—The long and the short of the 15th annual swimming championships of the national collegiate A. A.—the 50-yard free style and the taxing 1500 meter grind—will be decided today in Rutgers University's 25-yard pool.

With 152 competitors from 34 colleges and universities ready for the nine swimming and two diving events, the two-day meet opens with Ed Kirar of Michigan defending the 50-yard crown and Yale's blond-haired Johnny Macdon is striving to repeat in the metric mile event.

Three other individual championships also are to be decided during today's morning, afternoon and night program. In the first, the 150-yard backstroke, experts calculate Princeton's Al Vande Weghe rates an excellent chance to end the reign of Ohio State's Bill Neimzig.

Haynie Has Competition
Bill Kendall of Harvard, the Australian Olympic swimmer, and Charlie Hutter, another Crimson speedster, figure to press Michigan's Tom Haynie when he defends the 220-yard free-style championship. Haynie defends the 440-yard free-style crown tomorrow.

Barring an upset, Princeton's crack medley relay trio of Vande Weghe, Captain Dick Hough and Hank Van Oss, settlers of an American record of 2:53.6 at Cambridge in the eastern intercollegiate last week, were expected to triumph in the 300-yard event.

Semi-Finalists Of 1937 Again On Hand To Compete

Wichita, Kan., March 25—(AP)—On the same stage and with the same cast, the 1937 semi-finals of the women's national A. A. basketball show will be re-run tonight.

The champion Little Rock, Ark., Flyers meet the Wichita Thorstons at 9 P. M. The prime favorites, the tall Galveston Anios, face the thrice-champion Tulsa Stenos at 8 P. M.

On their records, Galveston and Little Rock were favored to win, as they did last year.

The semi-finalists won their quarter-final games by comfortable margins. Wichita defeated Tupelo, Miss., 28 to 14. Little Rock led Nashville 12 to 5 at the half, but Nashville boosted its score to nine before the Flyers really began to soar and won, 37 to 12. Tulsa coasted in after a big third quarter, winning 32 to 18. Galveston had the easiest time, romping in with a 28 to 5 win over Wamego, Kan.

In games to determine the fifth place team, Wamego will meet Des Moines at 7 P. M. and Nashville will play Tupelo at 10 P. M.

FENWICK FACES ANOTHER TEST ON TITLE ROAD

Chicago, March 25—(AP)—Fenwick high of Oak Park, defending champion, and newly-established favorites faced another test today in their drive for 1938 national Catholic high school basketball honors as the 15th annual Loyola University event entered its second round.

The field was reduced to 18 teams yesterday, however, two more games had to be completed this morning to wind up first round activity.

All Chicago teams survived yesterday's 11 game program, Loyola waiting until the evening round to emulate earlier victories of Leo and St. Ignatius.

After Immaculate Conception of Trenton, N. J., had trounced Pio Nono Academy of Wheeling, W. V., 42 to 23, for the most decisive victory of the day, the night engagements reverted to thrillers. St. Mary's of Anderson, Ind., stalled through the last minute to defeat St. Veronica of Ambridge, Pa., 31 to 29. St. Francis De Sales of Morgantown, W. Va., utilized 15 free shots in ousting a favored St. Mary team of Paterson, N. J., 33 to 29. Loyola, after trailing most of the last half, turned back St. Ambrose of Davenport, Iowa, 30 to 27.

A.B.C. TOURNEY SITE FOR 1938 TO BE PICKED

Chicago, March 25—(AP)—A meeting of delegates to select the site for the 1939 tournament overshadowed competition at the American Bowling Congress today.

Usually the delegates have made up their minds by the time they come together here for an official decision but this year Buffalo and Cleveland are waging a close battle for the privilege of playing host.

Buffalo produced the only newcomer to the standings yesterday when the Lang's Beer and Ale five tumbled 3,020 pins to take third place.

The leaders:
Five-Man Teams
Mystery Men, St. Louis, 3,035.
Two-Man Teams
Merritt Wilson-Fred Taft, St. Louis 1,292.
Individuals
Knut Anderson, Moline, Ill., 746.

KNACK ENTERS DIXON NINE IN BALL CIRCUIT

Veteran Promoter To Give Dixon Fast Baseball Team

Dixon will have a baseball team this summer.

Walter C. Knack, after having a championship team in basketball this past winter, will again try his hand at sports promotion for this community will again try to give to the sports fans of Dixon a champion on the diamond.

He has entered a team in the league consisting of Mendota, West Brooklyn, Maytown, Walton, Troy Grove, Sublette and one other team to be picked later.

To Buy New Uniforms

The veteran sportsman will purchase new uniforms for the team. All games will be played at Reynolds field where the park board has built a new diamond and which is considered one of the choicest baseball grounds in northern Illinois. The park board is going to make more improvements and the spacious park is an ideal spot for baseball fans to witness the games.

Tryouts for the team will be held early in April and will be open to all who wish to try out for the club. Chances are open for any ball player who wants to try his hand at the great American pastime this summer.

The team will be managed by Bernard Cummings and the coaches will be H. Emmert and Brownie Emmert. The date for tryout will be announced later.

KILLED BY OWN GUN

Jacksonville, Ill.—(AP)—Arthur Hilgerson, 40, was killed yesterday when a shotgun he was carrying fell to the ground and discharged. He was chief engineer in the Carrollton district for the state highway department. The body was found by Charles Weber a friend, near the Hilgerson cottage on the Illinois river east of Kampsville, Ill.

News of the Churches

GOOD THOUGHTS

What we have in us of the image of God is the love of truth and justice.

—Demosthenes.

A man protesting against error is on the way towards uniting himself with all men that believe in truth.

—Carlyle.

Our minds possess by nature an insatiable desire to know the truth.

—Cicero.

Truth is congenial to man. Moral truth is then most consummate when, like beauty, it commends itself without argument.

F. W. Newman

In order to discover truth, we must be truthful ourselves.

—Max Muller.

The spirit of Truth extinguishes false thinking, feeling, and acting. Thy word is true from the beginning; and every one of thy righteous judgments endureth for ever. Great peace have they which love thy law; and nothing shall offend them.

Morning worship 10:45 A. M. Theme, "The Etude of Spiritual Growth."
This Sunday's sermon will be the concluding one in a series on "Deepening the Spiritual Life." It will be based upon the hymnal, and use will be made of a number of the newer hymns as a means of introducing them to the congregation.
Members and friends of the congregation who have not yet returned their pledge cards are urged to do so by this Sunday so that a final return may be announced for the first of the church year, beginning April 1st.
The annual congregational meeting will be held one week from Wednesday, beginning with a picnic supper in the church basement at 6:30 P. M. All organizations will please have reports ready on the work of the past year.

The Young People's Forum will have a picnic supper Tuesday evening at the home of Harold and Virginia Cook.

Persons who desire to be received into the membership of the Presbyterian church are requested to speak to the pastor or one of the elders. Reception of members will take place at the communion service and cantata on Thursday evening of Holy Week. Baptism of infants will occur on Palm Sunday morning. Those having children to be baptised please phone or write the pastor.

8:00 A. M. Early divine worship. It is noticed that these beautiful mornings are increasing the attendance to this early worship.

9:30 A. M. Bible school. Of course the opening of spring is calling many to more interest in the school and the teaching of the Bible. We are glad for the growing interest.

We are indebted to a number of people for their kindness in helping us to tide over the time in which we are decorating the church auditorium. We are indebted to the city commissioners for the use of the council room for our intermediate department, to the Christian church for giving us room that they occupied. In the time of need we greatly appreciate the thought and kindness of our friends.

9:45 A. M. Regular divine worship. We appreciate the patience of the congregation and their loyalty as they crowd into the Sunday school room for this hour of worship. Very soon now we will be able to return to the auditorium.

6:30 P. M. The youth of the church meet. Attendance at this meeting is not only an expression of loyalty to the church but is a great source of helpfulness, of real pleasure and comfort. Come and see.

Wednesday night 7:30. Lenten services in our own church.

Friday night 7:45. Community Lenten services in the Methodist church. This also is a service to which the whole church is invited, in which all have a part.

You are cordially invited to all our appointments.

DIXON METHODIST CHURCH
Howard P. Buxton, Minister
"Putting First Things First" will be the sermon theme of Howard P. Buxton at the Dixon Episcopal church on Sunday morning, March 27 at 10:45 a. m. The three choirs of about 70 voices will be in the service of worship. The senior choir will sing "Cherubim Song" by Bortniansky.

A nursery is maintained at the church where small children may be left in competent hands while the parents attend the church services. It is hoped that all the members and friends of the church can attend the worship services every Sunday during Lent. The church school meets at 9:45 a. m. with classes for all aged groups.

The High School League and Oxford club meet on Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. A fine place to spend a couple of hours on Sunday evening for our young people.

The Sunday evening service at 7:45 p. m. with the Wesleyan chorus under the direction of Mr. Joslyn, leading the music.

The next meeting of the Men's club will be held on Tuesday evening, April 12, with Dr. Eugene Vest as the speaker. Rescuers Work Between Bombs

So intense was the Rebel bombing of Barcelona, Spanish government stronghold, that rescue squads scarcely had time to find the dead and wounded from one blast before another burst among them. In the photo above, while the workers in the foreground seek victims immediately after an explosion, smoke, debris and more human bodies shoot skyward in background as another missile explodes.

Cherry Blossoms Jump the Gun

The heartening phenomenon shown above made a lot of Washington's veteran predictors feel like two cents, but nobody got mad at all. You are looking at the capital's first cherry blossoms of the season, which weren't supposed to appear till April 1, according to the forecasters. But although the blossoms are new, it's the same old Washington monument which rears its head so proudly in the background. More than 250,000 visitors are expected this year for the capital's cherry blossom festival.

Another Nibble for the Nazis?

The tenacles of Nazism have reached down into tiny Liechtenstein, 65-square-mile independent principality nestling between Austria and Switzerland, and conferences between Liechtenstein Nazis and Berlin officials have given rise to reports that this little country will soon be absorbed by Germany. Ruled by Francis I, hereditary Prince, whose house dates from the 12th century, Liechtenstein's population of about 10,000 is almost wholly of German origin. The photo above is an air view of Vaduz, capital and principal city.

Audra Twitchell's story is that the Colorado sales tax burned her up so much that she thought a skiing costume made of tax tokens would keep her warm, even out in the snow. Anyway, here's little Audra, in her suit of 600 tokens, adding to the scenery on the slopes of Pike's Peak.

Preferred Death to Nazi Rule

Apparently preferring death to living in Nazi-occupied Austria, Major Emil Fey, above, former Vice Chancellor and one-time leader of the Austrian Heimwehr, killed himself, his wife and 19-year-old son in their Vienna home. His political significance had steadily declined since the days when, as director of the artillery assault on the Socialist apartment houses in Vienna, he became known as Austria's "iron man."

$35-a-Week Showgirl

Holding up the Broadway standard of beauty at the moment is Ginger Johnson, whom Billy Rose imported as a decoration for his Casa Manana floor show.

Rogers' Son and Deb to Marry

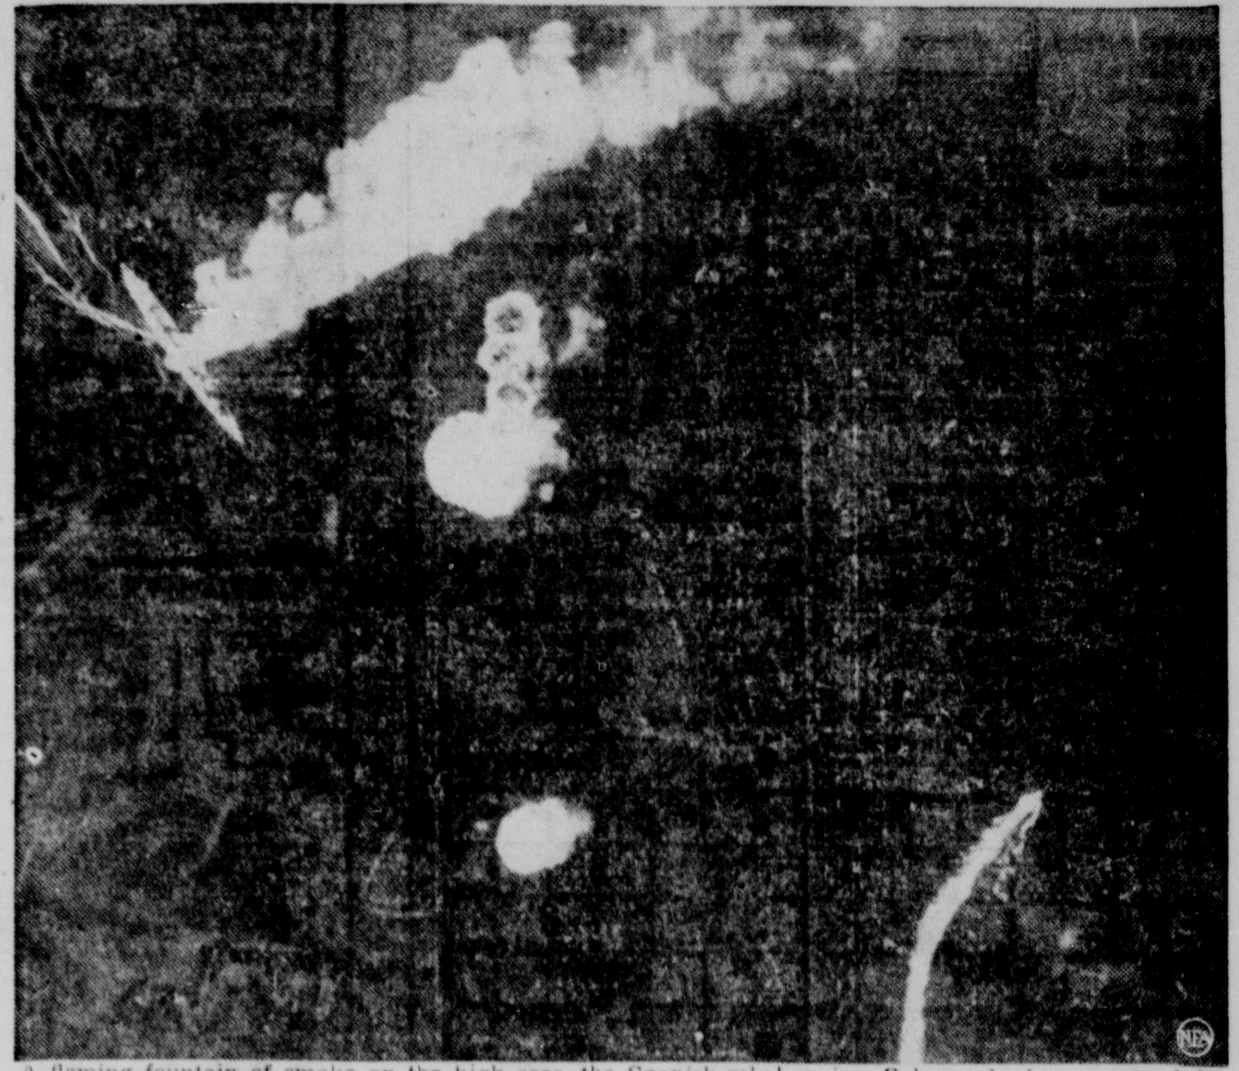

Can you detect a resemblance in the face of the young man above to a late humorist of national renown? Well, he is James Blake Rogers, 23-year-old son of the late Will Rogers, and he's pictured with his bride-to-be, 20-year-old Marguerite Astrea Kemmler, Los Angeles society girl, as they signed a notice-of-intention-to-marry in Los Angeles. The wedding was scheduled for March 26.

Spring Shopping at Mars & Co.

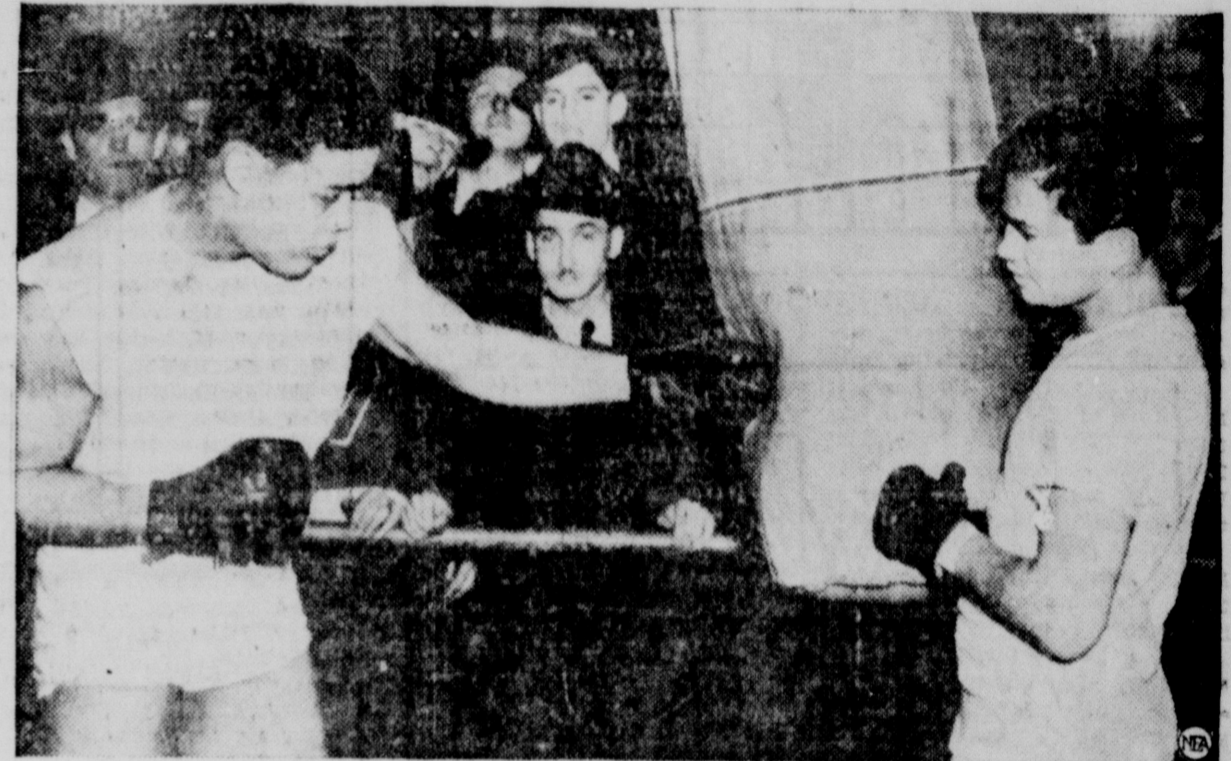

It is spring, when young men everywhere are shopping for bright new clothes. But inside the army hospitals of Tokyo, young Japanese men are indulging in a more grim "spring shopping." As shown in the photo above, many of them, their enthusiastic "banzais" of so short a time ago now replaced by grim-faced silence, are shopping for artificial arms and legs. Their own were left on the battlefields in China.

Rare Picture Shows Spanish Cruiser Sinking After Air Bombardment

OKAY, CHAMP, LAY INTO IT

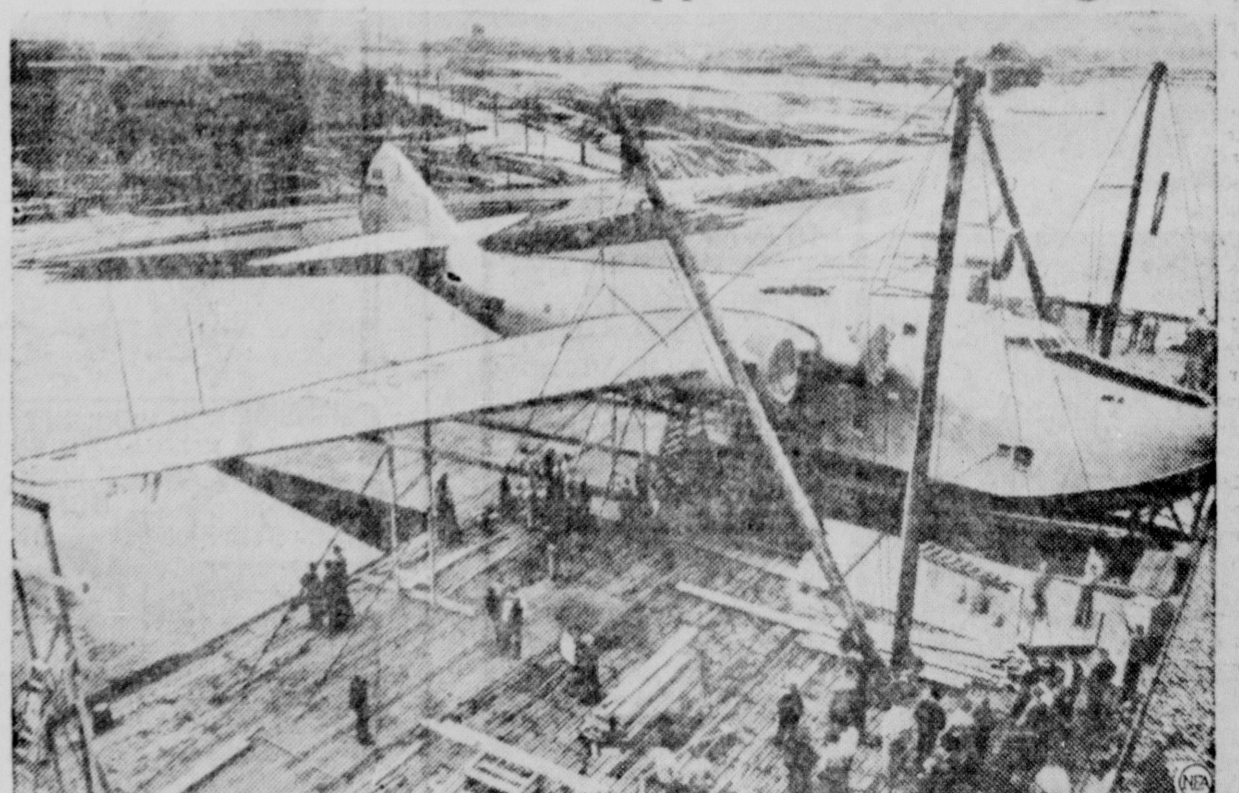

Joe Louis, left, heavyweight champion, and Barney Ross, welterweight monarch, lend a helping hand to each other these days as they work out in the same Chicago gymnasium. Louis is preparing for his title bout with Harry Thomas, April 1, while Ross is starting to get in shape for his meeting with Henry Armstrong in May.

Not So Fast, Soldier! That's Yankee Ground

Japanese troops may be in control of most of Shanghai, but when they try to walk past American marines and carry their arms into the International Settlement, they find the situation reversed, as pictured above. Under municipal rules, Japanese can enter the settlement—but not armed. The photo shows a Yankee marine officer as he waves a Japanese patrol back from the line. The soldiers, even the one trying a "flank movement" at the right, took their rifles back where they came from.

Giant Transoceanic Clipper Gets Its Wings

Men who make the big airliners are pretty husky fellows, but they look like pygmies beside the new 41-ton transoceanic flying boat pictured above at the Boeing plant in Seattle. With the 152-foot wings attached, the plane is beginning to "look its size." Six Clippers like this, each carrying 72 passengers, will be built for Pan American Airways for use over the Atlantic and Pacific. The photo shows the huge derricks used to lift the wings in position for attachment.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

THE MIGRATIONS OF BATS, LIKE THOSE OF BIRDS, ARE BEING STUDIED BY THE BANDING METHOD.

NOT MANY YEARS AGO, PEOPLE BELIEVED THAT TOADS PRODUCED WARTS, CARRIED JEWELS IN THEIR HEADS, POISONED INFANTS WITH THEIR BREATH, HAD MEDICINAL VIRTUES, CAUSED RAIN IF STEPPED UPON, AND, IF KILLED, AFFECTED THE QUALITY OF COW'S MILK.

IN MEXICO, THE MAGUEY PLANT IS USED AS A CLOTHESLINE! THE SPINES SERVE AS CLOTHES PINS.

THE ancients believed that a toad brought good fortune to the house in whose new made cellar it took up its abode. Today we know that the toad does bring good fortune to the owner of the and it occupies, for experiments have shown that the toad has an enormous appetite, and insects are his specialty.

Chicago, March 25—(AP)—You had better keep your eye on grandma.

She is liable to get some of those new-fangled grandmother ideas that came to light today.

Thirty-nine grandmothers, each active in business or in a profession, have organized "The Grandmothers' club."

"We intend to show that women when they are getting gray in their hair are getting better sense in business."

"We intend to show that when can start in business at middle age and make a success."

"And lastly, to show the younger generation we have their interests at heart, our slogan is: 'Bigger and better grandchildren.'"

With three charter members, "The Grandmothers' club" was organized in Bloomington, Ill., in 1936.

In addition to Mrs. Gray, the other pioneers were Mrs. Ora Synder of Chicago, a grandmother of six, who in 1909 began making and selling candy and now employs 300 people, and Mrs. Marie K. Brown of Chicago, a three-time grandmother and woman's department head of the Baltimore & Ohio railway. Mrs. Brown is president of the grandmothers.

Later "Joiners"
Later prominent grandmothers to join included Mrs. Bertha Baur of Chicago, Republican national committeewoman from Illinois, who, after the death of her husband in 1912, took over his $2,000,000 estate and is credited with having increased its value.

The club has already spread beyond the boundaries of Illinois for it has one member, Mrs. Laura Young, now living in Grand Forks,
N. D., and another, Mrs. Edna
Becker in Clinton, Ia.

The "star grandma" could well be
Mrs. Mary E. Ward of Mendota, Ill., who qualifies with 13 grandchildren. She entered business in 1899 and since 1930 has managed a gravel pit.

Mrs. Lillian I. Danskin of Jacksonville, now 72, and a grandmother of four, began selling insurance when 54 years old. In a questionnaire sent out by the club she answered the question: "Would you want to retire from active business?" with "When I die!"

Only one of the grandmas, Mrs.
Minnie Ellis of Alton, Ill., indicated a desire to retire.

Other members of the grandmothers' club included:

Some Other Members
Mrs. Kate Booker Stapp of Dan-in 1899; Mrs. Erma Templeman, a lawyer of Springfield, a grandmother of three, founder president of the Springfield Business and Professional Women's club, and a former state legislator.

Mrs. Julia Jacobs Steele of East
St. Louis, general office work; Mrs.
Robert C. Bourland of Rockford,
Ill., active in political and civic affairs; Mrs. Charles E. Dille of Cairo, now 60, combines genealogy research and work in the coroner's office; Dr. Magnolia M. Carlson of East St. Louis, who has a chiropractic office.

Mrs. Otto Smith and Mrs. Mary

Progress of Education And Religion Told in Continued Oregon Story

Methodists Are First To Establish An Organization

After recounting the criminal records of Oregon's history in the last installment, the story turns now to the brighter aspects of the community's progress in fields of religion and education.

The first denomination to organize for religious activity in Oregon was the Methodist, when in 1839 Rev. G. G. Worthington established a class of 11 persons, two of whom were men. Oregon was then on the Buffalo Grove circuit, established four years earlier, extending from Rochelle to the Mississippi river and from Prophetstown an equal distance north. James McKean was the first pastor to travel this district; but the best known circuit-rider in Oregon was the Rev. Barton Cartwright, who later made his home at Mt. Morris, and, after that again in Oregon, where he died.

Becoming the head of an Oregon Circuit in 1852, and in 1869 a station, requiring a pastor's whole time, the Oregon charge had increased sufficiently in membership to accomplish the building of the first church in 1857 and a parsonage in 1869 at the cost of $3,000 and $2,800 respectively. In 1873 a brick edifice was erected at a cost of $15,000.

Build First Church
The Lutheran denomination was the first in Oregon to erect a church building which stood for many years at the north edge of the court house grounds and was the church home for a long time, not only for the Lutherans, but for the Methodists and Presbyterians as well. The cornerstone was laid in 1850, two years after the organization of the society. Before that date meetings were held at the Phelps school house. The organization was effected by the Rev. N. J. Stroh, the first Lutheran pastor in the county. He continued a resident of the county for the rest of his life which brought him within one year of being a centenarian, which further meant 90 years in the faith.

In 1892 the first church, which had been remodeled and enlarged in 1875, was torn down, the lot sold and a new church built at the corner of Fifth and Jefferson streets.

Two of the earliest settlers of Oregon, John M. Schneider and Michael Nohe, being of the Catholic faith, soon exerted themselves to have a service of their church conducted in Oregon. By subscription they raised $1,600 with which the first stone church was built on the corner of Third and Monroe street in 1862. That continued a place of worship until 1890 when a large and beautiful St. Mary's church was erected on the corner of Fourth and Monroe streets at a cost of $17,000. During the fall of 1908 the interior was frescoed, all the work being done by hand.

First Priest
For some years mass was said and other services of the church were conducted at irregular intervals by visiting priests. The first to officiate by appointment was Rev. Mr. Lightner who came from Dixon each alternate Sunday. The first to be stationed at Oregon, though holding services also at Polo and Byron, was Rev. Otto Greenbaum.

The organization of the Presbyterian society of Oregon was accomplished in 1873 with 23 members. Prior to that time those of that faith made part of the Lutheran congregation. In 1874 a church edifice was erected and dedicated at the corner of Fifth and Jefferson streets and the first pastor was Rev. Robert Proctor.

Before 1909 there were the churches of Oregon.

Wells School
The Wells school was established April 14, 1879, by E. L. Wells, who had been superintendent of the Ogle county schools for 12 years. He found many earnest and faithful young teachers who wished to improve their work, but who could not go away to normal school. For several years Mr. Wells had planned a school which students might attend for any length of time and take such studies as they chose. After visiting schools in Europe, he established this school. For a considerable time it was known as the Teachers' Training school, abbreviated by the students to "T. T. S." The opportunity to take chosen subjects brought students from many Illinois counties and many different states.

First School House
The first school house, intended as such was erected in the summer and fall of 1839. This was a public school in later years, but whether or not it was in the beginning, it has not been possible to ascertain. Isaac B. Wooley was connected with the establishment under the state law. The first teacher was Alfred Marks and in 1842 the teacher was a Mr. Doe. Private schools continued to flourish for a time and were conducted by preachers and other educated persons.

In 1873 the Oregon school was systematically graded for the first time. The division was made into 10 grades by Superintendent Emanuel Brown.

In the next installment of this history the early societies and clubs which were part of the social and educational life of the community, will be sketched.

DOYLE DEMANDS INVESTIGATING CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Would Ascertain Their Actual Use; Supports Igoe For Senator

Springfield, Ill., March 25.—(AP)—Howard L. Doyle, federal district attorney here, announced late yesterday he has asked an "investigation x x x to ascertain the actual use" of campaign funds allegedly collected from contractors and state employees.

Doyle is a supporter of District Attorney Michael L. Igoe of Chicago for the Democratic senatorial nomination at the April 12 primary. He issued a statement declaring contractors doing business with the state highway department have been asked for campaign contributions. The department is under the jurisdiction of Director F. Lynden Smith of public works, who is campaign manager for the Democratic state endorsed by the Horner administration.

Doyle issued the following statement:
Based on complaints from contractors and payrollers who have been requested to contribute money to a certain campaign fund I have requested an investigation be conducted to ascertain the actual use of such contributions.

"It has come to my attention that huge sums of money have been collected on a percentage basis from state payrollers, both civil service employees and political employees of the state.

"This money used strictly for political purposes is not taxable as income. However, if any part of these huge sums it diverted it becomes income and is taxable under the federal revenue laws.

"The specific complaint from the contractors who bid on federal aid roads through the state highway department is that a refusal on their part to make such contributions puts them at a disadvantage with those contractors who contribute.

"In the event the investigation discloses any federal law violations, either under the revenue laws or the federal corrupt practices act, such evidence will of course be presented to a grand jury.

Governor Horner, asked for comment on Doyle's statement, said: "I am sorry to learn that politics controls the United States District Attorney's office."

John F. McGinnis of Alton, an assistant attorney general, issued a statement that the corrupt practices act doesn't deal with primaries. McGinnis suggested that Doyle consult "his high priced special assistant" or "read the law books instead of campaigning so vigorously for the candidate x x x who has the endorsement of Chicago's notorious Kelly-Nash machine."

F. Lynden Smith, director of public works and the Horner administration's campaign manager, was in Florida, where his father is ill. Doyle's statement implied that the investigation along income tax lines might develop if funds collected for campaign purposes have been diverted.

adequately protect the public interest.

It was two years ago, less one week, in the midst of the Horner-Bundesen Democratic primary split that "payroll padding" charges were made against the governor by John Stelle, now Lieutenant Governor. Stelle, on the anti-Horner ticket, held up the code department payrolls just before the governor's primary victory.

Calls Mortgage Law of Illinois Worst in Whole Country

Urbana, Ill., March 24.—(AP)—Horace Russell, general counsel of the Federal Home Loan Bank board and its agencies, today described the Illinois mortgage laws as "the worst in the United States" and urged a thorough revision.

In an address prepared for delivery before a joint assembly of the Illinois Building & Loan League and the Commerce School of the University of Illinois, Russell called for a law which would "fully and

Duck Serves 17th Season As Decoy

Quincy, Ill., March 25.—(AP)—Doodle the duck isn't what she used to be—her feathers are greying, her eyesight is bad, and she wants to be alone.

It has been almost 17 years since Doodle chipped the egg and started an active life as a caller to decoy other ducks during the hunting season. She had her troubles. Once she was stolen and her leg was injured when hunters jerked the string that tied her to the shore. But she kept her reputation as a great pet.

Recently while taking a bath she fell out of a sink in the home of her owner, Mrs. Chris Wolf. It shook her up. So now Doodle has retired from active life, and just sits around in sun, waiting for her seventeenth birthday.
